JANUS Associates awarded State of Massachusetts Information Technology services contract

Massachusetts Division of Employment & Training / Division of Career Services and Division of Unemployment Assistance chooses JANUS to provide vulnerability assessment and Independent Verification and Validation services for multiple systems.

Stamford, CT., July 21, 2011...JANUS Associates, information security specialists since 1988 today announced the formal receipt of a contract awarded by the Massachusetts Division of Employment & Training / Division of Career Services and Division of Unemployment Assistance for JANUS to provide information technology vulnerability assessment services and Independent Verification and Validation under the Massachusetts ITS33Solution Provider / ITS43TechSpec contract umbrella.

Patricia A.P Fisher, President & CEO of JANUS said “we are pleased and honored to once again have been selected to serve the people and Commonwealth of Massachusetts in assisting the improvement of security within the State’s vital information and communications assets. JANUS’ 23 years experience in supporting both business and government organizations with information security services will help Massachusetts achieve its information security objectives.” Ms. Fisher continued, “JANUS believes that its previous successful engagements with other Massachusetts state agencies in addition to its full-service capabilities from development of general security policies to highly technical biometric and encryption solutions were instrumental in the selection process.”

Work performed under this contract will help support Massachusetts’ unified approach to compliance and security procedures; standards and controls to ensure confidentiality; and integrity of information and controlled accessibility to that information to better protect residents’ unemployment benefit information.
